

ISCRA-2021

International Symposium on Cosmic Rays and Astrophysics

Information letter #1

The 3rd International Symposium on Cosmic Rays and Astrophysics (ISCRA-2021) is organized by the National Research Nuclear University MEPhI (Moscow Engineering Physics Institute) and the Consortium “Cosmic Rays and Elementary Particles” under the auspices of the Scientific Council of the Russian Academy of Sciences on the complex problem “Cosmic Rays” and will be held Online on June 08-10, 2021.

The aim of the Symposium is a wide discussion of experimental and theoretical results obtained in actual research directions in the field of high energy cosmic rays and astrophysics.

This year the Scientific Programme of ISCRA-2021 includes the following topics:

- Multicomponent EAS investigations;
- Energy spectrum and mass composition around and above the knee (direct and EAS measurements);
- Nucleus-nucleus interactions at high energies (models and experiments);
- TeV-PeV gamma rays;
- Cosmo- and geophysical aspects of cosmic rays.

Participation

Everyone interested in topics of the Scientific Programme is welcome to participate in the Symposium. For the participation it is necessary to register on the official Symposium website (<https://indico.nevod.mephi.ru/e/iscra-2021>). However, the total number of contributions is limited. Presentation of a contribution is only possible with the invitation of the Organizing Committee. To get the invitation, the recommendation of the members of Programme Committee is required. The participants with invitation can submit the Abstract with indication of the Section of the Symposium and the type of presentation. The Abstract should contain a clear description of new results, ideas, approaches which would give contribution to discussion of the announced scientific topics and would give the conveners necessary information for the acceptance of the Abstract.

Symposium language: English

Presentation types:

- Overviews (25 minutes including discussion);
- Original talks (15 minutes including discussion).
